Rejecting the Digital Trend, Florida Governor Vetoes Bill Authorizing Electronic Wills

On June 26, 2017, Florida Governor Rick Scott vetoed a bill establishing the “Florida Electronic Wills Act.” The Act would have authorized the creation of electronic wills that exist in a unique and identifiable electronic record that was electronically signed by the testator and two attesting witnesses in the presence of each other, either physically or through a video conference. See FL H.B. 277 (2017).
